

From: Gordon H. Kenyon
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/25/02 8:24pm
Subject: Microsoft in Clashes with its identically oriented competitors.

The absurdity of to-days rules of conduct in business, typified by the Enron actions and accounting fiasco, make any minor infingement on a co-competitor seem trivial.....especially when that competitor would most willingly have trespassed on the other, if it had thought of it first.
Look for the benefits received by mankind.....not the minor gains or losses experienced in to-days competitive struggle between players in the field.....someone has to be second, or even third.
Respectfully yours,
Gordon H. Kenyon